

REJECT YOURSELF FIRST

This workshop helps you to face the discomfort of negative feedback and be okay with the fact that some people won't like what you post.

The goal is to help you share your game more freely and build the audience your game deserves

STEP 1

Get comfortable and prepare your environment

STEP 2

Write a brutal 1-star review of your own game

STEP 3

Read it out loud and face the discomfort

PREPARATIONS

☐

I am in a private space where I will not be disturbed, and I feel comfortable speaking out loud.

☐

I have a pen, paper and timer ready.

WRITE THE REVIEW

On your sheet of paper, write the most brutal, unfair, 1-star Steam review or comment about your game you can imagine. Make it highly personal. Do not hold back.

READ IT OUT LOUD

Set a 1 minute timer. Accept and try to welcome the feeling and physical sensation in your body. If you lose focus and start thinking just come back to the feeling again, keep your focus there.

The only way to completely avoid being rejected by others is to hide, but if you want to promote your game you can't stay hidden so you need to reject yourself first. Which can sound strange but it's about allowing yourself to physically feel the hurt and discomfort of rejection in a safe space so that you can be more resilient and put your game out there!

Feel free to contact me for more support!<3